

Powered by Possibility

Results matter. and you are accountable for them.

Does anyone else recognize how quickly things will need to be done in this company?

Why is no one responding to the direction you've set and the efforts you've made?

What is it going to take to get this company re-aligned? Re-focused? Re-energized?

How many chances will you get to ensure the future success of your company?

Do you have the courage to turn things around...again?

(be honest)

